

MOTHER NOW TO GET $20 A MONTH

Alexander Petschnikoff, Violinist, Stirred by Evening World to Reconciliation.

HAD PAID HER $10.

She Had Peddled Wood in Moscow to Educate This "Fine Son" of Hers.

Alexander Petschnikoff, great violinist and prodigal son, who as told in Tuesday's Evening World, abandoned the aged mother who sold wood in the streets of Moscow to educate him, has returned to the family fold.

An hour after the story appeared in The Evening World Petschnikoff drove from his hotel to the little flat at No. 187 Madison avenue, where his mother lives, with her daughter, Mrs. Reue Kentner, and effected a reconciliation with her. He wept, told her the separation was not entirely his fault, that he would double the meagre allowance of $10 a month he had made hitherto on condition that their relationship be concealed, and carried her off to lunch with him and his wife.

Then he took the train for Boston, where he gave a concert last night.

"It was all a misunderstanding," said the happy mother, one word of kindness from the violinist having blotted out the memory of years of neglect. "Alexander came to see me. He put his arms around my neck and cried just as he used to do when he was a little boy. He has promised to give me $20 a month and to come and see me. He took me up to lunch with his wife. Is he not a fine son?"

"I am sorry nothing was published about our differences," Mrs. Kentner said. "It might ruin him. But he is good to me now and I want everybody to know it. I am the happiest woman in New York for my son has come to see me, and when he returns from Boston he will come again."

BINGHAM LET GRAND JURORS COOL HEELS.

Commissioner Kept His Visitors Waiting While Occupied with Police Duties in Brooklyn.

Police Commissioner Bingham allowed five members of the Grand Jury to cool their heels in the private office for an hour and a half yesterday afternoon, by appointment the grand jurors arrived at Mulberry street at 4 o'clock, and when Gen. Bingham finally reached his office he explained that police duties in Brooklyn had occupied his time. Once present, however, the Commissioner remained closeted with the jurors for over an hour. When they left the building the men were in a hurry. To reporters one replied: "You're on the wrong scent. We have nothing to do with the Grand Jury. The others laughed, and declaring that they were anxious for dinner, hurried away. Despite their denial, however, the men are foreman of the Grand Jury M. L. Simon and his colleagues, Frederick W. Walters, Judson Lawson, Maynard Hollister and Mr. Curtis.

AVENGERS BAFFLED BY POLICE GUARD

Brothers of Murdered Mary Ricker Awaited Leddy at Paterson Depot.

Fearing that the four brothers of Miss Mary Ricker, the Paterson (N. J.) girl, would take the law in their own hands when they caught sight of Harry Leddy, the accused murderer of their sister, upon the arrival of Leddy in Paterson early to-day, twenty police reserves surrounded the prisoner when he stepped from the train and hurried him to the police station.

Leddy arrived in Paterson about dawn, but news that he was being brought from Epping, N. H., where he was caught had been passed to friends of the murdered girl's family, and a great crowd of men was at the depot. Thomas Ricker, one of the dead girl's brothers, went to Epping with Detective Hunt to identify Leddy after his arrest, and came to Paterson on the train with the prisoner. Waiting at the depot were Richard, Samuel and Benjamin Ricker, surrounded by friends. The feeling of the four brothers is hardly more bitter against Leddy than is that of their friends.

The Rickers claim that their sister was shot to death by Leddy because she refused to elope with him. Leddy denies that he killed Miss Ricker. On the trip from New Hampshire efforts of Hunt to get him to talk were unavailing.
